YOUR TURN TO TALK

18

Listen. Then practice the dialog with a partner.
Take turns making conversations using the new information.

- A: Hi. What's new?
B: Nothing much. I'm just looking at some job ads.
A: What kind of work are you interested in?
B: I'll do just about anything. I'm broke!
A: I saw a job opening at a gas station.
B: No. That's too difficult and dirty.
A: Yeah, but the pay is pretty good.
B: Really? How much?
A: I think part-time workers make 1,000 yen an hour.
B: That's not bad!
A: Why don't you call for an interview?
B: I'll think about it.
A: OK, but I wouldn't wait too long.

Listen. Then practice the dialog with a partner.
Take turns making conversations using the new information.

- A: OK. I have just a few more questions if you don't mind.
B: No, not at all.
A: Have you ever done any part-time work?
B: Yes. I used to work at a department store.
A: I see. How long did you work there?
B: Just three months.
A: That's not very long. Why did you quit?
B: Well . . . uh . . . actually I was fired.
A: Why? What happened?
B: I was often late.
A: Hmm . . . that's not good.
B: But I've learned my lesson.
